CHILDHOOD DREAMS: PUMA HOOPS AND KYLE KUZMA CO-CREATE COLLECTION MADE WITH MORE SUSTAINABLE MATERIALS

SOMERVILLE, Mass. – November 14, 2022 – PUMA Hoops and Washington Wizards forward and entrepreneur Kyle Kuzma, have co-created a collection which includes styles made with more sustainable materials such as recycled and plastic-free fabrics and takes inspiration from Kuzma's youth and early basketball aspirations.

The collection, Childhood Dreams, was created in collaboration with Kuzma's fashion and lifestyle brand of the same name in which he serves as founder and creative director. The collection combines nostalgic nods to the '90s—from color blocking to cargo pockets—with more sustainable fabrics and dye practices. Apparel pieces in the collection are made using plastic-free RE:Place fabrics or at least 20% recycled materials.

In addition, PUMA will donate $10,000 to One Tree Planted in an effort to provide 10,000 trees to a project in Kuzma's home state of Michigan. This donation connects to Kuzma's belief that a better future blossoms by planting the seed. It's this optimism rooted in action that's inspired Kyle Kuzma to create his Childhood Dreams collection with PUMA.

The Childhood Dreams collection consists of apparel and footwear including: the Childhood Dreams Hoodie, Childhood Dreams Cargo Trouser, Childhood Dreams Varsity Jacket, Childhood Dreams Ralph Sampson Mule and more. The collection, which retails for $40-$250 will be available starting November 18 on PUMA.com, the PUMA mobile app and at the PUMA NYC Flagship Store.

As part of PUMA's Forever Better sustainability strategy, the company aims to increase the proportion of more sustainable raw materials in its products. This includes committing to sourcing cotton, polyester, leather, down feathers, and cardboard from certified sources and increasing the percentage of recycled materials throughout its product range.
